WHY I BELIEVE IN RICHMOND AND THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

BY SYDNEY S. CLARK,

Real Estate and Insurance

It is almost inconceivable to think that a man would build a house without providing the doors and windows with locks. We never hear of a steam driven engine without a safety valve. And what is more to the point we never hear of a progressive up and going city that does not have a live Chamber of Commerce.

In the same way that we provide locks on the doors and windows of a house we must supply the same agents for a city that we are building. Its purpose among many others is to hold what is rightfully ours. To collect those things that rightfully belong to us and exploit them to the fullest advantage, and in other ways act as custodian of the assets of the city.

The progressive Chamber which is functioning properly must take advantage of every prospect that is offered to improve the living working and health conditions of a city. Our Chamber of Commerce has indicated that it is on the job not only by taking advantage of the opportunities offered by searching for those opportunities that do not appear on the surface.

After all WE, you and I and every other member really are the Chamber of Commerce and for many of us it acts as a safety valve, when we expect too much of our community or our fellow citizens. A chain is only as strong as its weakest link as has so often been said and if we want our Chamber to be the strong city building organization that it should be, we must be careful that we do not pull down its efficiency by being a "weak link."

RADICAL ACTIVITIES VS. AMERICAN INSTITUTIONS

In a recent stirring address in New York City on the subject "Are Radical Activities Weakening American Institutions," Martin W. Littleton, one of the ablest constitutional lawyers in the United States said in part:

"Polyglot radicalism—embracing everything from a disgruntled Republican and a dissatisfied Democrat to a purring Socialist and a raging Red—dissolved into its original elements in the fierce fires of the last campaign. Each of these elements in its own way is imitating the strident grasshopper in the corner of the fence.

"The factitious and fictitious alliance is broken and the deformity of the whole movement stands uncovered; but the real purpose of radicalism is unchanged. Its forces may be shattered into unrelated fragments and its union of paradoxes may be dissolved; but Revolution, of the essence of which it was but a symptom, abides with us always.

"It inheres in and clings to all civilization. It is not provoked by war nor allayed by peace. It is not born of political defection nor cured by political harmony. It is present at the birth of every government and administers not infrequently at the death of many.

"Government substitution for the individual, government taking the place of the man and the woman, government hovering over the community and stifling the air, making the breath of liberty hard, difficult. Government, with its agencies and its minions, and its authorities, treading on your heels wherever you go, crossing your threshold, invading your home, reaching into the nursery of your children—government, and what is this thing called government?"

"This is mine and yours, an agency, an instrument. It isn't some foreign, hideous, powerful creature of the mystic ages set up to govern and to control and adjust and administer to man. Government is mine and yours to do with as in our judgment and our intelligence we think it should do, always mindful of the individual. Any government that invades the sacred domain of individuality is a government which does not belong to a period of American liberty."

A WONDERFUL FUTURE

"Compared with future development, public utilities are today where the railroads were seventy-five years ago when one was obliged to change cars five times when going between New York and Chicago. Most bonds of light and power companies now being offered should some day be underlying liens of super power systems with great central generating stations. Furthermore, we as yet are only scratching the surface as to uses for electrical energy. Homes, factories, railroads and other lines should, during the next ten or fifteen years, triple the present demand for electric current. Almost every new important invention either increases the demand for power or decreases the cost of producing or transmitting it.

"I believe the securities of well managed companies supplying light, power, gas, etc., to be the best investment now available, considering both security and yield. I oppose government ownership, as inefficient and corrupting, but I heartily approve customer ownership. I know of no investment paying over six per cent which is as safe as the first preferred 'Customer Ownership' stocks of such companies. When every user of a product is a stockholder of the company producing it we will have a condition which will be about one hundred per cent efficient and fair."—Roger W. Babson.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The Small Parosol to Match Frocks, Hat or Scarf Is Endorsed by Fashion.

THE parosol offers just one item for the ensemble enthusiast. The woman who likes to buy things in sets has a different sort of match different hats. Sometimes there is a need to match a frock. There are purses or handbags to go with some of the frocks or hats. A pair of gloves is an essential adjunct of a hat that shows the same sort of trimming. And now parosols match scarves, or bathing suits, or hats.

These sets were first shown for the benefit of those who were going southward for the cold windy months, but of course they made the purchase of a parosol a rather expensive adventure. Some of the most charming of these sets show a pure white silk parosol and white hat with the same design painted elaborately by hand on both pieces. One set that has been much admired shows a pine-tree design of green with a touch of gold against the white taffeta of the parosol and hat. This sort of ensemble might be made at home by the woman who is deft with the use of paintbrush and oil paints. For a clever scarf and parosol set for warm weather you might select an interesting printed scarf and then copy the design on the parosol by means of a stencil and paint. The side effect of this is something that has caused some comment. The very small parosol has been carried by fashionable women at Southern resorts—followed, of course, the lead of smart women at French resorts. This is a revival of the small parasol that we find in quaint old prints of a hundred years ago. Of course when you get used to it, it is not a novelty about it. It really looks queerer than the large parosol, and with the very small hats we are wearing it is a little change in usefulness.

Interesting materials are used for parosols this year. Fine mesh is used for some of the very small parosols. Cretonne makes many smart examples, especially those that are carried with bathing costumes. With these cretonne costumes the material is applied whole in Japanese fashion and not cut into the usual pie-shaped pieces. Some of these printed cretonne parosols are lined with silk.

WHERE IT STARTED

QUOTIS

This popular game had its origin with the Greeks in their Olympic games when they threw the discus. The original game was for distance rather than accuracy, and more strength than skill was used. Pitching quoits at a mark did not become popular till the invention of horseshoes, which were first thrown for distance, like the discus, and later for accuracy, as in our modern games.

BAREE, SON OF KAZAN

James Oliver Curwood
A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

Copyright, 1917, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"BAREE, SON OF KAZAN" a Vitaphone Picture, With Wolf, the War Dog, Is an Adaptation of This Story

SYNOPSIS

Baree, the wolf-dog, had left the cabin of Pierrot, the trapper, to join the wolf pack. But the wolves would not have him—he was only half-wolf, and back to the cabin he went, to be the guardian and pet of Nepeese, the trapper's daughter, henceforth. One day Pierrot received word from McTaggart, the factor, asking him to go to Lac Bain and help in the general store for a few days, while McTaggart was away. It was a strange request and caused Pierrot to wonder.

CHAPTER XIX—Continued

"And—Nepeese?" said Pierrot. "M'sieu expects me to bring her?" From the stove the Willow bent her head to listen, and her heart leaped free again at DeBar's answer.

"He said nothing about that. But surely—it will be a great change for little m'selle."

Pierrot nodded.

"Possibly, Netootam."

When DeBar was about to leave the next morning, Pierrot said:

"Tell M'sieu that I will leave for Lac Bain the day after to-morrow."

After DeBar had gone, he said to Nepeese:

"And you shall remain here, ma cherie. I will not take you to Lac Bain. I have had a dream that M'sieu will not go on a journey, but that he has died, and that he will be sick when I arrive at the post. And yet, if it should happen that you care to go—"

Nepeese straightened suddenly, like a reed that has been caught by the wind.

"Non!" she cried, so fiercely that Pierrot laughed, and rubbed his hands.

So it happened that on the second day after the fox-hunter's visit Pierrot left for Lac Bain, with had sent up twice a year from Nelson House.

On the second day of Pierrot's absence Nepeese dressed herself like this, but to-day she let her hair cascade in a shining glory about her, and about her forehead bound a circlet of red ribbon. She was not yet done. To-day she had marvelous designs. On the wall close to her mirror she had tacked a large page from a woman's magazine, and on this page was a lovely vision of curls. Fifteen hundred miles north of the sunny California studio in which the picture had been taken, Nepeese, with pouted red lips and puckered forehead, was fighting to master the mystery of the girl's curls!

She was looking into her mirror, her face flushed and her eyes aglow in the excitement of the struggle to fashion one of the coveted ringlets from a tress that fell away below her hips, when the door opened behind her, and Bush McTaggart walked in.

CHAPTER XX

The Willow's back was toward the door when the Factor from Lac Bain entered the cabin, and for a few seconds she did not turn. Her first thought was of Pierrot—for some reason he had returned. But even as this thought came to her, she heard in Baree's throat a snarl that brought her suddenly to her feet, facing the door.

McTaggart had not entered unprepared. He had left his pack, his gun, and his heavy coat outside. He was standing with his back against the door—and at Nepeese—in her wonderful dress and flowing hair—he was staring as if stunned for a space at what he saw. Fate, or accident, was playing against the Willow now.

It was not a long interval in which their eyes met in that terrible silence—terrible to the girl. Words were unnecessary. At last she understood—understood what her peril had been that day at the edge of the chasm and in the forest, when fearlessly she had played with the menace that was confronting her now.

A breath that was like a sob broke from her lips.

"M'sieu!" she tried to say. But it was only a gasp—an effort. She seemed choking.

Plainly she heard the click of the iron bolt as it locked the door. McTaggart advanced a step.

Only a single step McTaggart advanced. On the floor Baree had remained like a carved thing. He had not moved. He had not made a sound but that one warning snarl—until McTaggart took the step. And then, like a flash, he was up and in front of Nepeese, every hair of his body bristling and at the very tip of his nose McTaggart lunged back against the barred door. A word from Nepeese in that moment, and it would have been over. But an instant was lost—an instant before her cry came. In that moment man's hand and brain worked together swifter than brute understanding; and as Baree launched himself at the Factor's throat, there came a flash and a deafening explosion almost in the Willow's eyes.

It was a chance shot, a shot from the hip with McTaggart's automatic. Baree fell short. He struck the floor with a thud and rolled against the log wall. There was not a kick or a quiver left in his body. McTaggart laughed nervously as he shoved his pistol back in its holster. He knew that only a brain shot could have done that.

With her back against the farther wall, Nepeese was waiting. McTaggart could hear her panting breath. He advanced halfway to her.

"Nepeese, I have come to make you my wife," he said.

She did not answer. He could see that her breath was choking her. She raised her hand to her throat. He took two more steps, and stopped. He had never seen such eyes.

"I have come to make you my wife, Nepeese. To-morrow you will go on to Nelson House with me, and then back to Lac Bain—forever." He added the last word as an afterthought. "Forever," he repeated.

He did not mince words. His courage and his determination rose as he saw her body droop a little against the wall. She was powerless. There was no escape. Pierrot was gone. Baree was dead.

He had thought that no living creature could move as swiftly as the Willow when his arms reached out for her. She made no sound as she darted under one of his outstretched arms. He made a lunge, a brutal grab and his fingers caught a bit of her hair. He heard the snap of it as she tore herself free and flew to the door. She had thrown back the bolt—when he caught her and his arms closed about her. He dragged her back, and now she cried out—cried out in despair for Pierrot, for Baree, for some miracle of God that might save her.

Daily Cross Word Puzzle

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.

Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterrupted.

Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white squares remain uninterrupted.

Heat
For pain—soreness

Rheumatic pains, soreness, aches, etc., call for heat. The best way to apply it is Red Pepper Rub.

This is the modern way. It so exceeds the old ways that there is no comparison.

Nothing else creates such concentrated, fast penetrating heat as Red Pepper. And heat that doesn't hurt you.

You feel that tingling heat in an instant. In three minutes it seems to penetrate the depths. (Circulation is started, congestion is relieved, pain and the soreness go.)

What folly it is to suffer pains so easily and quickly stopped. What folly to let a cold in the chest go neglected. When trouble starts at night, what folly to wait until morning.

Keep Red Pepper Rub on hand. Homes which do that save a great deal of pain. Get it now—the very utmost in help of this kind.

DIVORCE BILL APPROVED BY CREDIT MEN

At the conference of the Retailers' Credit association, held in San Francisco last night, at which Mrs. M. M. Jensen, secretary of the Richmond Merchants association, was a delegate, the state amendment to the divorce law was one of the items of importance under discussion.

The amendment is now pending before the state legislature and was introduced by Assemblyman Edgar C. Levey of San Francisco through the efforts of the Retailers' Credit association. The bill is explained by the association as follows:

It requires the husband and wife, in an action for divorce, to give notice of the action to all creditors who have furnished them with necessities of life, articles of personal adornment or household furnishings.

It gives the merchant an opportunity to present his claim for the purchase price of such articles and requires the husband and wife either to approve and acknowledge the validity of the claim or deny its validity under oath.

It enables the creditor to bring suit for the purchase price where the claim is rejected or not acted upon within three days.

It prohibits the court from granting a decree of divorce until the parties show under oath that notice to creditors has been given and until the creditors have had time to present their claims.

It requires all agreements settling property rights to be presented to the court for approval if there are on file three claims aggregating $200.

It prohibits the court from approving such a property settlement or from granting the divorce of the agreement disposes of real property valued at more than $1,000 or cash exceeding $500, or periodic payments exceeding $50 per month, unless the agreement provides for the payment of approved claims, or unless the husband and wife enter into a written agreement with the merchants for payment of their claims.

It authorizes a court, where the monthly allowance to the wife exceeds $500 per month, or where a lump sum allowance exceeds $500, to order the payment by the husband directly to the merchants, of their claims upon a pro rata basis, until the claims are paid.

It authorizes the court to deduct from the wife's allowance the amount of a claim for wearing apparel or articles of personal adornment purchased by the wife during separation, or within thirty days prior to the commencement of an action for divorce, provided that it appears to the satisfaction of the court that the purchases were made in contemplation of divorce and for the purpose of creating a liability against the husband. In such cases the court may order direct payment to creditors.

It provides for appeals by either the husband, or the wife, or the merchants and protects the prevailing party upon appeal by the requirement of adequate bonds or undertakings on appeal.

It does not affect the business activities or obligations of either spouse as it is expressly limited in its operation to "necessaries of life, articles of personal adornment or household furnishings."

It does not, in any manner, affect the homestead, or change the existing power of the court relative to its disposition.

It does not require the merchant to present a claim if he chooses to commence an action at any time for the purchase price of the articles sold by him.

It does not work a hardship upon the person of small means, as it is not applicable where the monthly allowance amounts to $50 or less, or where the lump sum is $500 or less.

Six more alleged speeders were arrested by R. R. Chubb, county traffic officer on San Pablo avenue, within the past few days. Justice John Rich will handle the cases of the offenders on March 26.

Chubb stated that D. Casini of Richmond, charged with reckless driving, was riding a motorcycle on the tank farm hill so close to his own automobile that Casini's finger was crushed between the handlebars of the two motorcycles.

Motorists charged with speeding were G. Khoney, Sacramento; J. E. King, San Francisco; F. W. Haynes, Berkeley; P. H. Martland, Oakland; and E. E. Wright, Crockett.

10,000 Homeless

The warm gulf wind came in contact with the near zero temperature of the higher altitudes and latitudes it became a roaring tornado, sweeping everything before it, leaving death and destruction in its wake.

The path of the sky monster was not wide—the heart of it covering little more than a mile. It rose and fell as it swept across the country, for intervals of many miles sweeping through the sky, scarcely disturbing the surface of the earth, then dipping down, thundering over the terraine, shattering staunch buildings like a giant would crash a match box, tearing forests from the ground by the roots and leaving nothing but wreckage—shattered homes, killed and maimed victims in its wake.

LIKE BATTLE FIELDS.

The devastation in Southern Illinois, where the storm struck with its greatest fury, resembled the battlefields of Europe, according to relief workers reporting here today.

Relief and reconstruction units operated from a score of storm torn cities under direction of the state militia and the Red Cross. Gov. Len Small left Springfield for a personal survey of the storm zone.

In Chicago funds were being collected for the sufferers, the fund to date having reached an estimated $200,000. At Springfield the state legislature was enacting a bill to appropriate $500,000. The measure is expected to be ready for the Governor's signature by Monday.

A train load of supplies furnished through the United States quarter-masters department left Chicago for the storm zone this evening. It carried a thousand tents, 12,000 blankets, 4,000 coats and other equipment. Tents are sorely needed for shelter for, according to word coming to Red Cross headquarters here, hundreds of residences were wiped out in West Frankfort, Mcleansboro, Desoto, Parrish, Murphysboro and other cities and villages. The number of farm homes destroyed still number hundreds.

PREPARE NOW FOR COMING SCHOOL YEAR

About six months from now school bells will be ringing, for the first time, for thousands of California children. Picture this army of small citizens trudging toward the public schools of our state. They little realize the importance of the event but their parents should consider the fact that entering school is the first act of citizenship performed by the child. It marks his first rubbing of shoulders against those of his fellows. It is the beginning of the child's life as a unit in our civilization. This sounds like assuming a tremendous responsibility for a small child, but it is unquestionably one of the most important and most serious events in a child's life. There are few mothers and fathers who can not remember their first day in school. With some it was a day of fears and a day of tears; with others it was a day of wide-eyed wonder, and with many it was a day of happy surprises, full of entertainment of a new sort.

Whether the child greets this important day with gladness depends to a large extent upon his physical condition. If his teeth are decayed, if his tonsils are diseased, if he is unable to breathe freely through his nose, he is not in fit condition to enter upon his important career as an educated citizen of the United States. He can not escape attending school, because the law requires it. Whether or not he goes to school in fit physical condition, depends entirely upon the wisdom and foresight of his parents. His mother is chiefly responsible for the child's physical condition and she should make certain that he is physically fit.

If there are physical defects in a child who will enter school next fall, right now is the time to learn of such defects and have them corrected. Then he will be fit and ready when the time comes to answer the school bell's joyful ring.

The Bureau of Child Hygiene of the California State Board of Health is undertaking a plan for helping California children to be fit for entering school and has made arrangements for free examinations of pre-school children to be given this spring in nearly every county of California. Local papers in nearly every part of the state will print full particulars concerning the time and place where each conference will be held. If parents are unable to learn the necessary particulars, they can obtain full information by writing to the Bureau of Child Hygiene, California State Board of Health, State Bldg., San Francisco.

These physical examinations will be made by competent physicians, at no cost to the parents, and no fee of any sort will be required. This is part of the state's plan for helping to give California school children an opportunity to start school physically fit, for the state knows that a sick child can not be educated properly and the state can not get full value for the immense sums that it spends for education, unless its great army of school children is composed of strong, healthy, red-blooded young citizens.

Miss Rachael Miller, county school nurse, and other school officials are making arrangements for pre-examination examinations for children of school age. The examinations will be conducted under the direction of the State Board of Health with the aid of local physicians and will be held during April. Children of practically every locality of the county will be examined. A schedule for the examinations is now being arranged. ## VACATION IN SONOMA

A short vacation in Sonoma county will be taken by Mrs. K. A. Cole and Mrs. French. Mrs. Cole who was recently re-elected president of the Civic Center club for the third successive time expects to return early next week.

All England has been interested in the scandal brought to light by the suit of Mrs. Dorothy Muriel Dennistoun against her divorced husband, now the husband of Almina, Countess of Carnarvon, for recovery of 6,000 she asserts she advanced in payment of his debts. It was alleged that before the divorce, her husband, Lieut. Col. Ian Omslow Dennistoun, urged her to maintain friendly relations with the late Gen.

Steger Winery Is Under Libel Suit

In two libel actions filed in Federal Court by a resident United States Attorney Alma Myers yesterday the Government seeks the destruction of 38,818 gallons of wine and 172 dismantling of two California wineries. Those affected by the trial and the premises involved are the Steger Winery, owned by the Steger family, and the California Winery, owned by the California Winery Co. The Steger Winery is located in the Steger Winery, and the California Winery is located in the California Winery. The complaints aver that the owners of the wineries have been selling wine without permit.

Family Pictures

In many instances, cannot be replaced. The likeness of grandparents—those old tin types of dad and mother—snaps of the children when they were babies—all are treasures in your home that money cannot buy.

Still, these pictures are usually tucked away in a bottom drawer, between the pages of an old book, in envelopes and other places where they become lost. And daily the newspapers tell us of homes burning without a thing being saved.

One each of your rare family pictures should be kept in your safe deposit box where it is protected from fire, carelessness and mishap.

Safe deposit boxes can be secured at the Mercantile for approximately one cent a day.

Tom Mix Picture At Richmond Cause of Much Comment

"The Stage Coach Driver," the screen feature which opened at the Richmond theatre last night, and starring Tom Mix, the screen's greatest western character, has caused more comment than any Mix picture ever shown in Richmond. The packed houses last night acclaimed "The Stage Coach Driver" as the greatest production Tom Mix has ever appeared in.

If you are a Mix fan and like good western stories that are packed with action, thrills, comedy, romance and suspense then you should not miss this chance to see the greatest western picture that has ever been offered in Richmond.

We say again, don't miss this one. Other features on the same program include the last thrilling chapter of "The Santa Fe Trail" featuring Neva Gerber and Jack Perrin; "Uncle Sam's Gift," a Gumps comedy packed with laughs.

Philip Sassonia, 2023 Lane Street, San Francisco, reported to the police that a watch and chain, valued at $115 was taken from his vest which was hanging on a post near where he was working on a cottage on Chancellor avenue.

Aileen Pringle and Ronald Colman in "A Thief in Paradise."

Blondes and Brunettes in Bathing Suits Play Polo Match in Filming "Thief in Paradise" at California

Doris Kenyon, stage and screen star, had to study up on the rules and regulations of polo for her role in "A Thief in Paradise" now at the California theatre.

Doris, in one sequence of this thriller, appears as the referee of a novel polo game. The contestants were a team of blondes against one of brunettes, all clad in bathing suits. But after burning the midnight oil for several nights, she finally mastered the game and her decisions could not be challenged. Ronald Colman assisted her, with Aileen Pringle boosting for the blondes from the sidelines.

The three are co-featured in this picture, which is an adaptation from Leonard Merrick's novel, "The Worldlings." The Goldwyn-Pitzman release has many other novel scenes including a fierce fist fight between two men under seas; a luxurious dance pageant staged on the bottom of the ocean, an airplane episode, and others.

LANDIS PROVES EXPERT RIDER, RESCUES GIRL

Cullen Landis proves himself an excellent horseman in "Pioneer Trails," a Vitaphone special production, which will be shown at the Wesley M. E. church tonight.

The play demands a thrilling episode in which Landis stops a runaway stage coach, saving the lives of the occupants. Landis is called upon to race up to the stage and leap on the back of one of the leading horses and halt them in their flight.

During the making of this scene along a treacherous roadway in the mountains, Cullen misjudged the distance in leaping to the stage horse. The momentum of the jump carried him well over the horse in front. For a moment he hung his head downwards between the wildly galloping animals. He struggled desperately to regain his balance, while the six horses drawing the coach raced on unchecked as the reins were broken.

For many moments it seemed as if Landis and the occupants of the coach would be hurled to death as the stage roared around dangerous mountain curves. Gradually, by sheer strength, Landis slowly regained his balance and threw himself astride one of the horses. He seized the reins and by drawing on them with all his weight he succeeded in getting the horses under control and in finally stopping the stage.

Alice Calhoun and Dwight Cranden were two prominent stars who were riding in the coach when this near mishap occurred. Camera men and other members of the cast who were watching the taking of this daring scene were literally on their knees praying for the lives of those on the coach when for a time it appeared all would be hurled over the mountain side to a terrible death.

Second Round of Volley Ball To Play Saturday

The second round of the Y. M. C. A. Volleyball league will swing into action Saturday night.

The business men, who had promised to have a team in the league failed to get the required number, so last week a team calling themselves Wesley second team, played in their place. This club has taken the name "Wanderers" to include outside talent and from now on the Wanderers will supplant the business men on the schedule.

The game played last week will count as a league game. The schedule for tomorrow night follows:
7 p. m. Christian vs. Baptist.
7:45 p. m. Wanderers vs. Presbyterians.
8:30 p. m. Y. M. C. A. vs. Wesley.
9:15 p. m. St. Edmund's vs. Lutherans.

STEERING WHEEL STOLEN
While Mr. and Mrs. John A. Miller were attending the California theatre Wednesday evening, the steering wheel was stolen from their car while it was parked between Macdonald and Nevin avenues on Ninth street. The car had to be towed to a garage. Miller is a deputy county internal revenue collector.

A motorometer was also stolen from L. A. Voyle's machine which was parked in front of 341 Fifth street Wednesday night.

SAN PABLO BOY SCOUT TROOP IS ORGANIZED

At a meeting in the San Pablo school Wednesday night, organization of the San Pablo Boy Scout troop took place and officers were elected as follows: George Moltoza, patrol leader; James Day, secretary; Thomas Beard, treasurer; George McCausland, recorder; Henry C. Soito, G. P. Gilneberg, M. G. Moltoza, troop committeemen; and E. Shurbach, scoutmaster.

Those who have signed up as members of the troop are: James Day, Antony Moltoza, George McCausland, Jose A. Azevedo, Frank Nevin, Chris. Gezelio, Milton Hradest, Michael Solonisen, George Cervenk, Harry Moltoza and Gabriel Regoch.

Several new members were taken into the Boy Scouts at a meeting of the Big Six troop held Wednesday night in Firemen's hall, West Side. Plans were made for a get-together feed to be held at the scout home, Eighth and Ohio, on April 1.

Older boys make up the Big Six troop, most of whom are charter members of the Scouts in Richmond. The boys have re-organized into a senior troop and are looking forward to keen competition with the men's troop, which is to be organized in the near future. Next Wednesday night is the next meeting time of the Big Six troop.

The regular meeting of Troop No. 4, was also held Wednesday night, at the scout home. Jackal Patrol scored 11 points in the first aid contest, and Beaver Patrol scored three. Terrence Hennessy and Allan R. Day were delegated to attend the meeting of the City council next Monday evening. Scoutmasters R. Cox and Julius Garitz were in charge last night.

Tentative plans were made for a big swim at the Berkeley Y. M. C. A. this evening.

FUNERAL ON SATURDAY

HARBOR PLANS DISCUSSED AT BOARD MEETING

The Harbor Executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the city council held a joint session in the Chamber of Commerce rooms yesterday, for the purpose of deciding upon what portions of the report of the harbor engineers on the Richmond project should be urged upon the city council and the chamber of commerce for immediate action.

The board of the chamber, J. H. Plate chairman, and of the council, G. F. Black, chairman, took steps to secure the dedication of the streets running into the inner harbor south of Cutting boulevard. A discussion of the process by which use of the wharves proposed for the inner harbor could be secured, was the cause of the action.

Action toward the dedication of the streets will probably come before the council next Monday night. With access certain by both rail and highway to the waterfront along the inner harbor it was felt by the members of the joint committee that the further development of the inner harbor section was assured.

Troops Guard

Authorities are convinced that no lives were lost, although early reports said a man and woman, two children and a nurse were burned to death.

The property loss will total $4,000,000. Other hotels have thrown open their doors to those who were driven from The Breakers and Palm Beach, but they are inadequate to accommodate all and many persons were compelled to sleep on the self links last night.

Troops who are on guard to prevent looting have arrested fifteen negroes.

Frame Up

are through she may have to do some explaining for herself."

Mrs. Shepherd from her Kentworth home continued to issue statements in which "frame up" was frequently used.

"All the interests which have conspired against Mr. Shepherd are so satanically malicious, so malignant, that it is beyond human conception," one of these read. "There is only one notice beyond this persecution to deprive Mr. Shepherd of rights under the will."

Neither Shepherd nor his wife offered anything to controvert the evidence against him nor in support of their cry of "frame up and conspiracy" beyond declaring that all witnesses against them had lied.

HOUSEMAN ARRESTED.

Dr. C. C. Fainman, indicted with Shepherd, but not served with a capias, continued a guest at a hotel. Another room of the same hotel housed Louis Kies, Shepherd's former houseman, who unexpectedly was taken in custody this afternoon and placed under guard.

The State, it was said, planned to question him again upon his story.

TRUCK HITS AUTOMOBILE

The driver of a truck was turned into the police last night by Duane Johnson, 316 South Third street, who stated that the truck had smashed into his automobile at Pullman and South street, but had failed to stop. The machine was damaged slightly. The unidentified driver will probably be located and a charge placed against him.

That Shepherd had used a basement storeroom as a laboratory, Mrs. Shepherd, showing investigators thru the house, pointed out a room with shelves of preserves as the supposed laboratory and declared that what Kies believed a crate for guineapigs was in reality only an attachment for a lawn mower in which to catch dried leaves and grass.

Happy Days

Start this way.
A simple glass of water with a sparkle in it.

This is the way to keep at your best. To always be fit and be cheerful.

On rising, drink a glass of water, not of cold. That washes the stomach and prepares you for breakfast.

Add to that water a little Jad Salts. That makes it sparkling and delightful. Jad Salts are made from the acids of lemons and grape combined with lithia.

Then behold. In one hour comes elimination of poisons and waste matter. Of all that depresses and makes you unfit.

The day changes entirely. You become happy, energetic. You feel like a child of ten.

It's a wonderful experience. It is saving dull, unhappy days to millions.

No matter about the serious disease which comes from constipation. Learn the joy which comes in one hour from relief.

For tomorrow's sake, ask your druggist for Jad Salts today.
